Reviewed Draft

Dear valued investors,

In [transaction date], Partners Group invested in Nordic SaaS Holdings ("Nordic SaaS Holdings"), a Stockholm-headquartered B2B SaaS portfolio company serving the Nordic residential real estate and property management sector. Nordic SaaS Holdings provides an integrated software platform that automates rent collection, maintenance management, tenant communication, and regulatory reporting for residential property managers across Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Finland. As a lead investor, Partners Group committed EUR 158 million for a 60% controlling stake. At completion, Nordic SaaS Holdings served 412 property management companies collectively managing more than 240,000 residential units, generated annual recurring revenue of EUR 35 million on a cleaned basis, and employed 167 people across Stockholm, Oslo, and Helsinki.

Partners Group was attracted to Nordic SaaS Holdings due to its market-leading product, underpenetrated end market, and strong founder-led management team. Independent customer research conducted during diligence rated Nordic SaaS Holdings significantly higher than its principal Nordic competitor, Yardi Nordic, on usability, feature completeness, and customer support, supporting the view that the company has a defensible competitive position with high switching costs. The Nordic property management technology market remains structurally underpenetrated, with approximately 40% of property management companies still relying on legacy systems or spreadsheets, providing a long runway for growth. In Partners Group's base case, the company is expected to grow ARR to approximately EUR 95 million over a five-year hold through organic growth, selective M&A, and expansion into adjacent commercial property management, supporting an attractive risk-adjusted return profile.

Reviewer assessment

Needs significant work. The draft has several issues that need addressing before it's ready for signoff. First, there are conflicting statements regarding the transaction date, the investment amount, and the operational metrics of Nordic SaaS Holdings. These discrepancies need resolution, as the sources provide differing figures or details. On the editorial side, the narrative around Partners Group's attraction to Nordic SaaS Holdings and the projected growth in ARR lacks clarity and precision. The language is somewhat promotional and could benefit from a more balanced tone, especially when discussing market positioning and growth expectations. While compliance is clean, these editorial and evidence issues must be resolved to ensure the draft is both accurate and compelling.

Statement review

"In [transaction date], Partners Group invested in Nordic SaaS Holdings ("Nordic SaaS Holdings"), a Stockholm-headquartered B2B SaaS portfolio company serving the Nordic residential real estate and property management sector."

Verdict: Conflicting (high concern)

Evidence finding: The statement claims that Partners Group has already invested in Nordic SaaS Holdings, but the source indicates that the investment is merely a recommendation and has not yet been completed. The source suggests an investment of EUR 158 million for a 60% controlling stake, but does not confirm that the transaction has occurred. The reviewer should reconcile this discrepancy or remove the claim.

Excerpt: "We recommend an investment of EUR 158 million for a 60% controlling stake in Nordic SaaS Holdings AB ("NSH" or "the Company"), a Stockholm-headquartered B2B SaaS platform serving the Nordic real estate and property management sector."

"As a lead investor, Partners Group committed EUR 158 million for a 60% controlling stake."

Verdict: Conflicting (high concern)

Evidence finding: The statement claims that Partners Group committed EUR 158 million for a 60% controlling stake, suggesting a completed investment. However, the source indicates this is merely a recommendation, not a finalized commitment, creating a modality conflict. The reviewer should reconcile this discrepancy or remove the claim.

Excerpt: "We recommend an investment of EUR 158 million for a 60% controlling stake in Nordic SaaS Holdings AB ("NSH" or "the Company"), a Stockholm-headquartered B2B SaaS platform serving the Nordic real estate and property management sector."

"At completion, Nordic SaaS Holdings served 412 property management companies collectively managing more than 240,000 residential units, generated annual recurring revenue of EUR 35 million on a cleaned basis, and employed 167 people across Stockholm, Oslo, and Helsinki."

Verdict: Conflicting (high concern)

Evidence finding: The statement conflicts with the source regarding the number of property management companies served. The statement claims 412 companies, while the source reports over 380 companies. Additionally, the source does not mention the 'cleaned basis' for the annual recurring revenue, which is stated as EUR 35 million. However, the source does confirm the number of residential units managed and the figures for employees and ARR. The reviewer should reconcile these discrepancies or consider removing the conflicting parts of the statement.

Excerpt: "The platform serves over 380 property management companies across Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Finland, collectively managing more than 240,000 residential units."

"Partners Group was attracted to Nordic SaaS Holdings due to its market-leading product, underpenetrated end market, and strong founder-led management team."

Verdict: Confirmed

Evidence finding: The source confirms that Partners Group was attracted to Nordic SaaS Holdings due to its market-leading product, underpenetrated end market, and strong founder-led management team. Specifically, the source highlights that independent customer research rated NSH significantly higher than its principal Nordic competitor on usability, feature completeness, and customer support, affirming the product's market-leading status.

Excerpt: "Three factors drive our conviction. First, the product is genuinely market-leading. Independent customer research conducted as part of diligence rated NSH significantly higher than the principal Nordic competitor (Yardi Nordic) on usability, feature completeness, and customer support...."

Editorial note: The statement uses first-person plural 'was attracted to' without identifying the authoring organisation. The output type requires third-person references to the firm. 'market-leading' is an unsubstantiated superlative; remove or substantiate.

Compliance note: No compliance concerns identified under the listed rules.

"Independent customer research conducted during diligence rated Nordic SaaS Holdings significantly higher than its principal Nordic competitor, Yardi Nordic, on usability, feature completeness, and customer support, supporting the view that the company has a defensible competitive position with high switching costs."

Verdict: Confirmed

Evidence finding: The source confirms the statement by indicating that independent customer research rated Nordic SaaS Holdings significantly higher than Yardi Nordic on usability, feature completeness, and customer support. This supports the view that the company has a defensible competitive position with high switching costs.

Excerpt: "Independent customer research conducted as part of diligence rated NSH significantly higher than the principal Nordic competitor (Yardi Nordic) on usability, feature completeness, and customer support."

"The Nordic property management technology market remains structurally underpenetrated, with approximately 40% of property management companies still relying on legacy systems or spreadsheets, providing a long runway for growth."

Verdict: Confirmed

Evidence finding: The source confirms the statement by indicating that the Nordic property management technology market is structurally underpenetrated, with approximately 40% of property management companies still using legacy systems or spreadsheets. This suggests a significant opportunity for growth in the market.

Excerpt: "Second, the Nordic property management technology market remains structurally underpenetrated. Approximately 40% of Nordic property management companies still use legacy systems or spreadsheets. NSH has a clear runway to continue penetrating this addressable market."

Editorial note: No editorial or style concerns identified under the listed rules.

Compliance note: No compliance concerns identified under the listed rules.

"In Partners Group's base case, the company is expected to grow ARR to approximately EUR 95 million over a five-year hold through organic growth, selective M&A, and expansion into adjacent commercial property management, supporting an attractive risk-adjusted return profile."

Verdict: Confirmed

Evidence finding: The source confirms the statement by projecting ARR growth from EUR 38 million to approximately EUR 95 million over a five-year hold. This growth is supported by organic growth, selective M&A, and expansion into adjacent commercial property management, aligning with the statement's details.

Excerpt: "Our base case envisages ARR growth from EUR 38 million today to approximately EUR 95 million over a five-year hold...."

Editorial note: The statement uses third-person ('the company is expected') instead of the first-person plural voice appropriate for an investor letter.

Compliance note: No compliance concerns identified under the listed rules.
